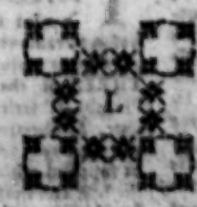
CONTINUATION of the JOURNAL of Tranſactions in Boſton, begun in this Paper of Nov. 3d, and continued in thoſe of Dec. 12, 15, 22, and 29.

BOSTON, November 22.



LORD BOTETOURT of Virginia, in the room of the much reſpected General Amherſt, lately diſplaced, we find is arrived at his capital, and agreeable to prediction has begun his adminiſtration with an action of eclat, having not only diſſolved the patriotic aſſembly of that province, but been able to do it with the advice of council.——The diſſolving and ſuſpending American parliaments, a faſhion introduced by Lord H——ſh——gh, inſtead of warding off and preventing, will rather ſerve to haſten and accompliſh the great event.

November 23. This day, C——m——r P——n exhibited himſelf upon Change for a few minutes; and appeared a ſtriking inſtance of the contempt and hatred which thoſe men draw upon themſelves from their fellow citizens, who have dared to miſrepreſent and injure their country, in order to gratify their avaricious cravings.

General Gage this day ſet out on his return to New-York (without doubt) fully convinced, that it is owing to the baſeſt miſrepreſentation, that this loyal and orderly people have been treated with ſo great inſult and indignity, as to have an army and fleet ſent among them, as it is expreſſ'd by the M——r, to preſerve order, and aſſiſt the civil magiſtrate in the due execution of the laws.

November 24. It is confidently reported, that Commodore Hood has requeſted the B——d of C——l——s to let him know in writing, what ſhips of war they apprehend may be neceſſary to winter in this port, for the better protection of their perſons from inſult, and the better to enable them to ſecure and collect the American revenue; that he may then diſpatch the remaining ſhips to their ſeveral ſtations, before the winter ſets in.—Can we wonder that C——m——rs P. H. B and R. have been ſo intoxicated with the ideas of their own importance, when a Britiſh M——r ſeems to have thought them capable of diſtilling the movements of ſo conſiderable a part of the fleet and army?

We hear that a Petty Officer of the Mermaid man of war, having left his ſtation and deſerted, has been ſentenced by a court martial held for his trial, to be hanged on a yard-arm of ſaid ſhip.—It is to be feared the N. E. expedition will occaſion a greater loſs of men than was at firſt apprehended.

November 25. The town watch has been lately greatly abuſed and interrupted in their duty by ſome officers, two of them came to the town-houſe watch with ſwords under their arms, calling them damned ſcoundrels, forbidding them to challenge officers as they paſſed, or to give the time of night in their rounds, as alſo from keeping in the watch-houſe, threatening, that in ſuch caſe, they would have them in irons, and bring four regiments to blow them all to Hell; alſo telling the watchmen they were King's ſoldiers and gentlemen, who had orders from his Majeſty, and they were above the ſelectmen who gave them their orders: Upon another night, other officers came to the Dock-watch, one of them with a drawn hanger or bayonet, thrikng it againſt the door, and aſking, whether they thought the times were now as they had been, and that they could ſtand four regiments; alſo damning them, and threatening to burn all of us to aſhes, and to ſend us all to Hell in one month's time.—At another time, the South-watch was alſo aſſaulted, one of the men ſtruck at, and much abuſed with profane and threatening language. The laſt evening a gentleman of diſtinction, ſeeing an officer of a man of war in the coffee houſe, who had two evenings before called out to him in a rude manner, thought proper to aſk him why he was thus accoſted; upon which the officer deſired him to go into a room, for he wanted the pleaſure of taking his life; that as he did not ſuppoſe him acquainted with the ſword, piſtols would do; he then called out to the gentleman, will you not fight me? upon which the gentleman deſired, and the officer agreed, to meet him at his houſe in the morning, to determine what was to be done; the officer not coming, we hear the gentleman having learned that he was a lieutenant of marines, intended a proſecution, but was prevented by his confining himſelf to his ſhip.——Captain W——n, of the regulars, tho' bound to his good behaviour for the Negro Buſineſs, has notwithſtanding, repeated his offences, by drawing his ſword upon ſome perſons the laſt evening, and otherwiſe abuſing them, and we hear complaint has been made to one of our magiſtrates reſpecting this affair.—If ſuch proceedings in our ſtreets conſervators of the peace were not ſo common, theſe things would appear ſtrange, but thus they are ſo common —this is ſtranger ſtill.

We have advice from New-York, that on the 14th inſt. there was expoſed and burnt in this city, the Effigies of G. B. and S. G. in reſentment at the parts they acted in endeavouring to get the troops quartered in this town; contrary to the letter and ſpirit of the act of parliament relative to billetting troops in America, as alſo to the advice of his Majeſty's council.—It is ſaid the former has given out, that the miſtakes of the billetting act will be corrected this ſeſſion of parliament, and from the ſucceſs he has hitherto met with in impoſing upon a M——r, he is now vain enough to inſinuate, that he ſhall be able to influence even a Britiſh parliament to give him power to treſpaſs upon the citizens.

November 26. By the ſhips juſt arrived from London and Briſtol, we have the agreeable advice, that the Political Tide was turning faſt; the merchants and manufacturers are looking more about them, and Ad——m——n are confounded to find that inſtead of a little faction in one province only, as G. B. repreſented it; the whole continent are united in oppoſition to meaſures, which they apprehend to be not only anti commercial, but quite incompatible with their rights as men and as Britiſh ſubjects: That all parties among them diſavow the late Revenue Acts, and as its great fautor is among the dead, thoſe acts being now deſtitute of all ſupport, will be repealed, and ſome men among us, whoſe importance grew out of them, be returned to their primitive inſignificancy, if not called to a ſtrict account. American publications are now read with eagerneſs; the principles upon which they turn, and the ſpirit and energy appearing in many of them are highly applauded: Our caſe is at length, brought where we have long wiſhed it to be, before the public; it can be no longer injured by falſe gloſſes, and the baſeſt arts: A vaſt majority is already in our favour; and ſhall we now renounce the principles in defence of which we have already gained ſuch merit and applauſe from our brethren in Britain, many of whom, had at firſt apprehenſions on the conteſted points, different from our own? Some tools of power would perſuade us to this, they even beſeech us not to mention our rights; but this would be

* [It may be aſked whether the aſſembly was diſſolved for the reaſon this gentleman ſuppoſes, ſince it does not appear that the Governor gave the leaſt hint of any ſuch reaſon; or if he had, that the council would, on that account, have adviſed him to a diſſolution—for the council perfectly concurred with the aſſembly in aſſerting their rights—in the petition to his Majeſty, the memorial to the Lords, and the Remonſtrance to the Parliament; the council therefore, with reſpect to theſe proceedings, were equally obnoxious to the miniſtry as the houſe of repreſentatives; and could never have adviſed the Governor to a diſſolution of that houſe, for a conduct which they could not cenſure, without condemning themſelves? Beſides, the laſt hint from the Governor, or even ſuſpicion, that the aſſembly was diſſolved for ſuch a cauſe, would have been a ſure means of the re-election of every man of them that concurred in the meaſures, and of the rejection of every one who did not; which would entirely have defeated the ſuppoſed deſign of the diſſolution, by producing an aſſembly much more unanimous and firm than the laſt, in oppoſition to the miniſterial ſchemes of oppreſſion. The exhibits.] to relinquish the beſt of cauſes when we have the faireſt proſpect of ſucceſs. The enemies to our rights and liberties have done their worſt, their machinations and groſs miſrepreſentations have procured a ſtanding army for this town; the inflamed accounts, great movements, and faſt expence, by which this has been effected, ſerved to fix the attention of the parent country, upon the American diſputes; the ſide that is ſupported by truth and equity, and conſtitutional principles, needs only attention, in ſuch a nation as Britain in order to prevail; inſtead of being diſcouraged, we are invited by many on the other ſide of the water, of the firſt character for politeſt wiſdom, and of no ſmall influence in government, to keep our foot upon that conſtitutional ground, where from the beginning we have placed it; they have aſſured us that this ground will ſupport us, and we truſt in God, we ſhall never be driven from it. The miniſtry, as well as the nation, will find reaſon to rejoice at the prudent manner in which we received the troops, and in that loyalty to our Sovereign, and affection to the parent country, which in this people has prevailed over all reſentment. While the nation are anxious till they hear the event, none we know are more diſtreſſed than thoſe who adviſed or gave the order for ſo raſh and impolitick a ſtep:—The apprehenſion of deſtroying by its own military force, the channels of its commerce and the fountain of its wealth, or of loſing in the aſſeſſions of America, a reſource which nothing elſe can ſupply, has at length, thoroughly alarmed the nation: Who would have thought that any M——y would have driven ſo near a precipice! We are now told that a retreat is wiſhed for, in conſiſtence with the honour of government; this is what we ſincerely wiſh. Selfiſh and wicked ſervants, with a tolerable ſhew of art may hold out falſe lights, eſpecially when, the ſcene of action is diſtant, by which wiſe and great men may be miſled; but is it not true honour to rectify miſtakes upon the avowed principles of truth and equity? however this may be, we hope America will never renounce the rights of Britiſh ſubjects to form a ſcreen for any miniſter.

November 27. It ſeems not improper for the day, to reflect with concern on the drunkenneſs, debaucheries, and other extravagancies which prevail by reaſon of the troops being quartered in the midſt of a town, where diſtilled ſpirits are ſo cheap and plenty; as alſo on the many ſevere whippings which have been occaſioned thereby the laſt week; and we cannot but expect our fears, that Boſton will before the ſpring, produce as great a change upon a parcel of the beſt ſoldiers of Britain, as the city of Capua did in a ſhorter ſpace of time upon Hannibal's brave army impolitickly quartered therein.

CHRISTOPHER GADSDEN,

N. B. Ten or a Dozen large Veſſels can be diſcharged together, very readily and conveniently.

LONDON, November 5.

To the Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Middleſex.

GENTLEMEN,

I CANNOT ſuppreſs the emotions of a grateful heart. I muſt pay you my laſt tribute of thanks for the many proofs of a noble and generous friendſhip which you have continued to me in this priſon now for above ſix months.—I will not lament my paſt ſufferings, not even a harſh and cruel ſentence, becauſe I find that your favour and protection are extended to me in proportion to the encreaſe of the perſecutions I undergo. Every day gives a freſh mark of your kindneſs and affection: I truſt that it may add likewiſe, of my firmneſs in the cauſe, as well as ſteady attachment to my friends, the ſupporters of freedom, and the conſtitution of our native country.

The parliament being ſummoned to meet the next week for the diſpatch of buſineſs, I think it my duty to ſubmit to you the particulars of my future conduct. I mean to petition the houſe of commons as the grand inqueſt of the nation, in the full hope of a redreſs of all my grievances, which have ariſen from various acts of arbitrary power exerted by the miniſters, the illegalities reſpecting the two trials, and eſpecially the alterations of the records. I have already lodged an appeal againſt the two ſentences before the houſe of Lords, as the ſupreme judicature of this kingdom, and I ſhall bring before their Lordſhips the whole ſtate of the legal proceedings, which I believe are no leſs erroneous and invalid than thoſe have already been declared to be, which reſpected the outlawry. The meeting of parliament will ſuſpend the important, public cauſe againſt Lord Halifax, which cannot be tried till the term following the next prorogation.

I look forward, gentlemen, to the happy moment of regaining my freedom, and of giving you, in a Britiſh ſenate, the cleareſt demonſtration that the principles of liberty have taken deep root in my heart. You ſhall find me a faithful guardian of the civil and religious liberties of the people of England, ſtrenuous and unwearied in my endeavours to deſtroy all the remains of deſpotic power among our free-born countrymen. I ſhall think it a glorious reward of my toils, if in one inſtance only, a point of the utmoſt moment, grand juries may, thro' my efforts, recover the power and right given them by the firſt principles of the conſtitution, which are at preſent entirely loſt in the mode of proceeding by information, ſo long, to the great grievance of the ſubject, practiſed both by the attorney-general, and the judges of the court of King's Bench. In this, and every other point of national liberty, I ſhall earneſtly beg your aſſiſtance. I hope at all times in public buſineſs to have the advantage of your counſels to perfect the plan of ſecuring and guarding the liberties of the freeſt nation in the world, againſt the future attacks of wicked miniſters, or even encroachments of the crown; which ſecurity can only be obtained by the moſt wholeſome laws and the wiſeſt regulations, built on the firm Baſis of Magna Charta, the great preſerver of the lives, freedom, and property of Engliſhmen.

I am, Gentlemen,
Under unreſtoring Obligations,
Your faithful and obedient humble Servant,
King's Bench Priſon,
Thurſday, November 3, 1768. JOHN WILKES.
